ev show notes:

Presumably the last ever Empire Zeke show and all of the monkeys were out of out the box. You knew the night was going to be different when his Zekeness skyscrapered right into Chainsaw Massacre and topped it off with some Hand Jive. The band fired up all the cylinders and played with even more heart than the night before with the most notable of the many standouts being a double dose of near back-to-back Stones, the rare and sought after March On Down To Valentine, the once in a lifetime Empire Empire theme song, and a welcomed rendition of The End Is Not In Sight.
